xWatch Imaging

The xWatch from Det-Tronics is an explosion-proof surveillance camera providing a high-resolution color image of activity in the monitored area. The combination of camera and flame detector allows the capture and recording of fires and other activities on video. When a flame detector goes into alarm, the operator can immediately view the monitored area in real time and accurately assess the risk and location of the fire and react appropriately when the right decision is essential to saving a life or preventing the loss of millions of dollars in property or productivity.

The xWatch Explosionproof Surveillance Camera monitors remote or inaccessible areas. It has the capability of connecting to any video switcher for live video output. It can be mounted on all X-Series flame detectors or incorporated into an Eagle Quantum Premier system. The xWatch cuts your wiring and installation costs by retrofitting an existing C7050 detector with the xWatch camera component. Weighing only 1.2 lbs, the xWatch fits easily into small spaces.
